

TerraNoble Carmenerere Costa (CA2) recommended by Patricio Tapia in Decanter Magazine with 93 p.

In his recent Decanter.com article 'The New Carmenerere Plus 12 of the Best Worth Trying', Patricio Tapia -one of the most influential wine journalists in Chile- wrote about the new winemaking style of Carmenerere, that aims at fresher and fruity wines.

Among his 12 Carmenerere 'worth trying', he selected our CA2 with 93 points.

In his words, 'CA is TerraNoble's project that seeks to reveal the way in which Carmenerere shows its origin. Here that area is Lolol, on the Colchagua coast. The fruits are vivid and crisp, full of red fruit and an acidic energy on a medium-bodied and refreshing palate.'

Our Carmenerere CA project includes the Carmenerere Andes (CA1) from our Los Lingues Vineyard, in the foothills of the Andes Mountains.
